

Find Out How Good Marcus I And North Lakes Park Have Been

Marcus I Invitational

William Grundy

Aug 27, 2019

Marcus I is and has always been a big deal.

Reason being, well, it's just one of those meets that the top DFW teams and athletes and other talented individuals and teams from around the state travel to to test their early season fitness.

This weekend will be the 31st edition of the meet and it will again be run on the popular North Lakes Park course in Denton, Texas.

The hype surrounding the field of teams that Marcus I and North Lakes Park annually attracts aren't just hopefuls, but they are tried and tested. The results at the meet and throughout the season prove that they live up to the expectations and the hype.

It's popularity is also because it is one of the first 5K races of the season. Ask the athletes and coaches, the course isn't known to be fast, with all of the curves and turns and the many runners in the races, but it is still known to produce some fast times considering it's held at the end of August/first of September.

Girls Pre: Individua

The only girls teams to qualify for NXN from the South Region that did not compete at Marcus I has been Kingwood and the only boys teams have been The Woodlands, Boerne Champion, and El Paso Eastwood.

Both the team and individual outcomes for this weekend's Marcus I could continue that trend. Some of the top teams are in the area and consistently compete at Marcus I. The top individual athletes are registered to compete. For example, this year we will no doubt see Whit Dennis of Fort Worth Paschal who ran 15:10 over this past weekend.
